The courtesies of the floor, on motion of Mr. Roberts, are extended to Hon. J. T. S. Baird, former member of this body fifty-two years ago, from Buncombe County. He was conducted to his original seat, occupied by him at that time, and Mr. Roberts read a communication from him to this body.

By a unanimous rising vote, the said communication was ordered spread on the Journal.

The communication is as follows:

Mr. Speaker: My friend has told you of my service in this House fifty-two years ago, and also twenty-two years ago.

The Legislature of 1858-'9, of which I had the honor to be a member, adjourned fifty-two years ago to-day. After much diligent inquiry, I have learned that, of the one hundred and seventy men who composed that General Assembly, only three are now living, the others having all passed over the mystic river and gone to that far-off country from whose bourne no traveler ever returns.

Fifty-two years, when spoken, seems a long time, yet there are graven upon the tablets of my memory scenes and incidents and forms and faces of those days that come up so vividly before me to-day, as to seem it was only yesterday I was looking upon them. While I look in vain to-day around this hall for a living face that greeted me in those days, I can, at this hour, call to mind a vision of that grand galaxy of statesmen, whose voices, though hushed, are still speaking to me, and whose spirits seem to be near me; and I look again upon the serene and benign face of former Governor John M. Morehead of Guilford, and the dark, flashing eyes of the fiery and impetuous Matt. W. Ransom of Northampton, the classic features of the urbane and scholarly William N. H. Smith of Hertford, the proud, imperious, and eloquent John Kerr of Caswell, the stern and sedate David Outlaw of Bertie, the cultured and courteous William T. Dortch of Wayne, the brainy, semper paratus of the House, Atlas J. Dargan of Anson, the handsome, gifted, and brilliant Ed. Graham Haywood of Wake, the warm-hearted and sweet-spirited Oliver H. Dockery of Richmond, the stalwart and commanding figures of Robert R. Bridgers of Edgecombe, and Nathan N. Fleming of Rowan; the genial and sunny face of Dick Reeves of Surry, the noble, courtly, and big-souled Thomas Settle of Rockingham (Speaker of the House). These and a hundred others, with whom my spirit loves to commune, seem to be around me to-day, and, as in the past, so in the future, they shall ever dwell with me as a cherished and blessed memory. And as I shall be thinking of them,

"In all their best of deeds and words and ways," my heart will be continually singing, in softest strains, the beautiful lines of the immortal Tupper:

"I love the dead—
The precious spirits, gone before,
And waiting on that peaceful shore
To meet, with welcome looks,
And bless me yet once more."

Mr. Speaker, the three of whom I spoke as still remaining are Col. N. B. Whitfield of Lenoir, Col. Ambrose Costner of Lincoln, and myself. Desiring to see these gentlemen once more, before we are called to join the great company of our colleagues on the other shore, I have recently corresponded with them, inviting them to meet me to-day in this city, and together take, perhaps, our last look down the dim vista of the past and talk over the things of the long ago. But alas! from each of them there comes to me, in pathetic words, that touch me deeply, the sad response that the weight of years, together with severe physical affliction, has so borne them down as to preclude the possibility of their making the journey to this city. So I stand here alone, sir, to-day as the ancient of days, and as one come down to you from the generations that have gone; and as I stand and look wistfully to the far-off delectable hills, I am wondering when these weary feet shall press the other shore, and these dimmed eyes shall be filled with the new light.

We, the undersigned members of the House of Representatives, in the exercise of our constitutional right, do hereby file our protest against the passage, on the night of March 6, 1911, of S. B. 1346, H. B. 2051, being a bill to be entitled "An act to amend the charter of the town of Gastonia," for the following reasons:

(1) That it is unjust to those people living outside the present corporate limits of the town of Gastonia to bring them in against their will and fasten on them a large bonded indebtedness which they had no voice in contracting.

(2) For that it was not made to appear that any notice, as required by Article II, section 12, of the Constitution of North Carolina, was given; and in fact it affirmatively appeared that said notice was not given. We therefore enter this our protest, and request that the same be spread upon the Journal.

(Signed) J FRANK RAY,
JOHN H. DILLARD,
B. S. GAY,
L. B. PERRY,

The following report is ordered spread on the Journal:

To the Honorable the General Assembly:

We, the undersigned members of the special committee appointed under resolution of this body to investigate the condition of the State's interest in the Mattamuskeet Railroad, the Elkin and Alleghany Railroad, the Statesville Air Line Railroad, the Wilkesboro-Jefferson Turnpike, and State institutions, beg to report as follows:

Your committee finds that it has been impossible to investigate all these properties and make an intelligent or comprehensive report thereon, for the want of time. Your committee has, however, recommended and the Legislature has passed a bill authorizing the Governor and his Council of State and the Board of Internal Improvements to make such investigations as they may deem proper to safeguard the State's interests, and an appropriation has been made for the purpose of carrying into effect such measure as they may deem necessary for the protection of the State's interest.

Your committee did, however, examine the buildings erected at the State Hospital at Raleigh, and while your committee found some minor defects which have developed after two years of service, we do not think they are sufficient to be worthy of special notice. In our opinion, the general construction is good, and we do not find the cost of same to be excessive. We believe that the purchase of the land adjoining the State's property was wise and has amply justified the expenditure of that amount of money.

We recommend that all institutions receiving State aid should be required to make quarterly instead of annual reports of their expenditures, and that every account or voucher issued to them should show for what purpose the money was expended.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS A. COX,
F. P. ALSPAUGH,
J. A. BROWN.
